THE COURTS.

PERSONAL LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS. NATIONAL BANK HAS NO RIGHT TO BUY ITS OWN

Another of the Eighth National Bank case which action was brought to enforce the personal bility of stockholders came on for trial yesterday in the U. S. District Court before Judge Blatchford. That bank failed on Dec. 13, 1871, and the Controller of the Currency appointed Albon Manlas his receiver. The assets of the bank not being sufficient to pay its debts, the Controller also assessed its stockholders 54 per cent on the par value of the stock held by them. In the ases tried last week, which were reported in The PRIBUNE, and in which verdicts were ordered for the laintiffs, the defense was that the Controller appoint fr. Man as receiver of the bank without its being equired to show cause why a receiver should not be de, and that all of the Controller's acts in the matter libon Man as receiver of the Eighth National Bank agt. Dr. Timothy M. Cheesman, an alleged stockholder med, Dr. Cheesman's 50 shares of stock in the so claimed. Dr. Cheesman a bank. In addition to the defenses set up in the cases referred to, the defendant pleaded that he was not a stockholder in the bank when it failed. During the trial an interesting and very important iquestion was raised f showing that the latter was not a stockholder in the dence his certificate of stock in that bank. Upon the backs of the certificates were transferes signed in blank in respect to date and the name of the transferees. The powers of attorney on the backs of the certificates were also signed in blank. Mr. Chit-dence his certificate of stock in that observed in blank in respect to date and the name of the transferees. The powers of attorney on the backs of the certificates were also signed in blank. Mr. Chittenden argued, nevertheless, that, in executing the transfers, Dr. Cheesman parted with his interest in the stock of the bank. At this point Judge Blatchford asked the question, "Who took Dr. Cheesman's place as a stockholder!" and the answer was, "The bank," "But," replied the Judge, "there is a law which says that National banks shall not purchase their own stock." Mr. Man of counsel for the plaintiff then claimed that Dr. Cheesman could only get rid of his stock, and consequently of his personal liability as a stockholder, by selling the former to some one who had a legal right to take his place as a stockholder. Atter some further discussion, Judge Blatchford said that, before deciding upon the question of law which had been raised, he would hear evidence concerning the transfers of the stock. After the evidence had been received, Mr. Man asked the Court to direct a verdict for the plaintiff. Mr. Chittenden also asked it to do the same thing for the defendant, Judge Blatchford said that the only question in the case was whether or not the defendant was a stockholder in the bank. "The stock," continued tho Judge, "has never been transferred on the books of the bank; it appears on them in the name of Dr. Cheesman. It was, as appears, purchased by the bank, and the law does not allow a National bank to purchase its own stock. Hid Dr. Cheesman directed he stock to be transferred to some particular person, the case would assume a different aspect. Although he undoubtedly acted in good faith, he must be regarded as a stockholder, and the law holds him responsible for the amount assessed on the stock in question."

In conclusion, the Judge directed the jury to find a verdict for the plaintiff. They so tound, and Mr. Chittenden excepted to the verdict, and said he should take an appeal.

VALIDITY OF THE LICENSE LAW. A LIQUOR DEALER CONVICTED OF SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT A LICENSE-A TEST CASE.

When the Commissioners of Excise, in the arly part off this year, rearranged the prices charged for licenses to sell liquors, many dealers refused or omitted to take out licenses and continued to sell liquor without them. In order to establish their authority, the ness at No. 25 Greenwich-ave., took out a license in May, 1873, paying $50 for it, but in May, 1874, when the amount was raised to $100, he omitted to do so. During the trial yesterday, Commissioners Stewart and Stiner were present, and also a large number of liquor dealers and the prisoner's friends. A great deal of time was spent in getting a jury. Every juror was questioned as to his opinion of the Excise law, as to whether he was a member of any temperance society or had any prejudice against liquor dealers. tions to the indictment, all technical, which were overruled. The principal witness was the inspector, Thomas J. Wendener, who went to the defendant's saloon, asked cross-examination was chiefly an attempt to discredit this knowledge of different wines and liquors, particu-

He testified that the Board of Excise was organized in He stated, upon cross-examination, that this that, at the organization, six different rates for licenses had been adopted, depending chiefly upon the amount defense; first, that the witness should show that the keeping a book of minutes, and secondly, that it should be proved that the statute had been complied with in fixing a license fee. Great stress was laid upon the point that the Board had fixed six different fees, instead of a fee. Assistant District-Attorney Rollins said that the defendant had no right to raise this objection, Is he had never applied for a license. He thought it was clear that, as to the point raised, the Commissioners

larly as to the difference between Rhine wine and German elder, a distinction upon which the defense had a discretionary right. The prosecution then rested.

The opening address for the defense was made by A.

Oakey Hall. He said this was the first prosecution for 22 years for selling liquor without a license, as prose-cuting officers found those cases rested on such thinted testimony that juries either acquitted or disagreed. The defendant was only resisiting the legal oppression of the Commissioners, and the jury would not send him to the Penitentiary on the sole evidence of that degraded wretch, an informer. Mr. Hail pointed out the dangerous political power which swould be placed in the hands of the Commissioners if they were allowed to deal with applicants as they chose. The only witness called for the defense was the prisoner, who testified that he knew the Inspector, and was prepared for his visit, selling him German eider instead of Rhine wine. In reply to Judge Barrett, however, he admitted that the article was bought and officed to him as wine.

Mr. McKeon's summing up was chiefly devoted to an arraignment of the Excise law, as one to which the mass of the people objected, and also as oppressive and unjust. He somewhat astonished the dealers present by stating that they had elected to the Court of Appeals, by 50,000 majority, one who had expressed a wish to the people. defendant was only resisiting the legal oppression of the the people.

The accused was found guilty. Motion for arrest of judgment was made, and is to be argued to-morrow if the counsel are ready; if not an extension of time will be grounded.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the New-York Liquor Dealers' Pretective Union the following resolution was unanimously adopted : Resolved, That a special meeting of the New-York Liquor Dealers' Society be held on Montary, New. 30t, for the purpose of taking into consideration a plan of action in view of the pending decision in the case of the People against Sighamod Schwab, found grainy of aciling wine without a licease. Not knowing what the penalty may be, we would better be presented for the encogency, and, in the mean time, we call supon the members of this Union to defer all action in relation to the Excise law hould arrect that meeting.

TREATMENT OF OMNIBUS HORSES.

Mr. Bergh, in behalf of the American Society for the Prevention of Crueity to Animals, has been trying for some time to secure better treatment of om-nibus horses, by making the proprietors of the lines responsible for their condition, instead of punishing the drivers. In order to do this, a case was brought in the Justice's Court, in Fifty-seventh-st., against the Fourth Avenue Stage Line. Jesse and John M. Marshall and William H. Wilkins, proprietors, and Charles Brunell, superintendent, were charged with overloading, overdriving, cruelly treating, and tormenting a poor, spavined, and otherwise diseased horse. poor, spavined, and otherwise diseased horse. An indictment was found, after the examination in the lower Court, embodying these charges, and the trial was begun yesterday in the Court of General Sessions, before Judge Satherland. The evidence showed that the horse was incapable of doing the work imposed open him, and that he was still used, even after having been once before sent back to the stables by the Seciety's officers. Mr. Bergh was one of the witnesses, and Col. Fellows wished to show by his testimony that he had an animus sgainst the stage lines. Mr. Bergh's reply was to the point; he had an animus and should do all he legally could to prevent the craci this morning.

THE ELECTION DAY MURDER.

Judge Barrett, in the Court of Oyer and Cerminer yesterday morning, informed Mr. Clinton. Coroner Croker's counsel, that he was not prepared yet to give his decision on the motion to admit Croker to ball, but would try to have it ready for Wednesday norming. Mr. Cinton asked that the case be set down remptorily for this morning. He thought that under certeumstances they were entitled to an immediate d. Assisfant District-Attorney Rollins remarked to this was a very ususual application. He never the of a Court's exercising its power to compete a District Attorney to try a case the next day, and there was other in the pase to can for such extraordinary lights.

In the Special Term of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, E.igar M. Cullen, appeared to make return to two writs of mandamus against the Board of Supervisors of Brooklyn, to compel them to pay the Charity pay-roll. It was claimed that the original man-damus had not been served on the defendants. Mayor J. H. Bergen for the writs replied that the law had been complied with, that a certified copy bad been served on each member of the Board. Justice Pratt reserved

J. H. McMahon, a resident of Texas, having property in this city, by C. H. Malby, who obtained a verdict for $22,597 42. At the beginning of the suit, the money of the defendant in the National Park Bank was attached, and the eashier made a return that there was a deposit in the bank to McMahon's credit of $13,689 83. After the judgment was obtained, execution was levied, but the bank refused to pay on the ground that the attachment was not signed by the Sheriff—M. T. Brounan—but by his deputy's clerk. Thereupon the Sheriff brought suit against the bank. In the Supreme Court, yesterday. Judge Van Brunt decided that by making a return the cashier waived his right to a regular certificate, and bound the bank by his act; and that the Sheriff, by accepting the certificate, made it his own. Judgment was given for the Sheriff.

Fredericka Fritton; writ of error to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.—The property of the bankrapt having been sold under a mortgage, there remained a surplus after satisfying the mortgage. The assignee appeared before the Anditor, who was directed to distribute the fund, and etaimed it, and audited the claims of the other lien creditors. Justice Hunt delivered the opinion, hobting that by his voluntary appearance and submission to the order of the State Court, referring it to the Anditor for distribution, he did not raise the question of the exclusive jurisdiction of the Bankrupt Court over the surplus in controversy, also, that to render a confession of pingiment by a bankrupt volument must have had knowledge of the impolemency of the bankrupt.

CHARITY'S BEST METHODS.

VIEWS OF JOHN H. KEYSER ON INDISCRIMINATE CHARITY-A REPLY TO DR. JOHN HALL.

Mr. John H. Keyser, long known for his charitable efforts among the poor of this city, forwards to THE TRIBUNE a communication of considerable length n criticism of the views of Dr. John Hall, recently pubdirectly enough on the subject to warrant the insertion of his letter in full. Beginning with the idea of contrastatements which do not seem to reach this end, and incidentally gives information and suggestions of value and interest, which are reproduced below. He says:

incidentally gives information and suggestions of value and interest, which are reproduced below. He says:

It is a common error that the country generally, agricultural or mechanical, is employing its own people. Much less is it ready to absorb the 50,000 or 60,000 enforced idle population of this metropolis, whose ranks are rapidly augmenting. The industry of the country is partially paralyzed; in many sections wholly so. The great lumber and iron interests of Pennsylvania are stagnant; and apparently trustworthy statistics show that from the suspension of smelting or blast furnaces for the manufacture of pigiron, some 17,000 persons have been deprived of employment. This is more than true of the lumber interests over the whole land; and even in Florida, where the hum of industry has never ceased since the war, there is an ominous silence. Last year many needy men from the city found employment there in the manufacture of lumber and ship timber; this year none. Norwalk, Conn., is ordinarily a thrifty, busy town with a lock factory employing 200 hands, with tron works riving work to about the same number; with numerous steel manufactures; and it also gives skilled labor to probably 500 workmen in building or in building materials. Now with the exception of the hatting interest, which is large, all industries are still, and hopelessly so, for the Winter. There is but one piece of work in building going on in the lower town, which may give work to a dozen skilled workmen and half-a-dozen laborers for sixty days. It is an excellent agricultural country for miles around, but wheever should take the contract to place twelve laborers among the farmers at even hoard and $5 or $3 per month until May next would fail. Then, too, we must remember that this dearth of labor has been going on for a year until those who were provident have exhausted their stores, and are ill prepared to meet the Winter before them.

The condition of the industrial classes in our city is deplorable; no such crisis has ever existed as now. The isor. It will require wisdom, justice, mercy, and discretion among rulers and well-to-do people to bridge over the yawning chasm of poverty that threatens us so early in the season. I have witnessed the harrowing spectacle to-day of from 800 to 1,000 homeless, hungry men struggling for a simple bowi of soup and a piece of bread, the only meal of the day. And who are these unfortunate men! Fully three-quarters of this multi-tude are mostly respectable poor driven by the vicissitudes of the times into the pauperizing elements of soup-house charity. They are helpless and powerless to prevent it, and they demand our immediate care and protection. But the greatest suffering is among families who have been gradually reduced until they now stand face to face with the grim mouster want. The independent middle classes are also beginning to feel the strain and the wall of want. Therefore this is no time to withhold the hand of charity or mercy, but rather to commence at once to meet the sad and pressing exigency. The experiences of the hour demand prompt action tempered by discretion and good judgment in ministering to the pressing needs of the poor, and few men can do more than can Dr. Hall with his influence among those who hold the means to alleviate the threatened dancers of suffering and starvation in our midst.

ministering to the pressing needs of the poor, and few men can do more than can Dr. Hall with his influence among those who hold the means to alleviate the threatened dangers of suffering and starvation in our midst. Let us save our vessel and repair her by and by. She is freighted with too many thousand precious human souls who must be somehow tided over the rocks of poverty, cold and starvation, and that at once.

A word on "soup-house charity" which is spoken so lightly of in many quarters. I agree that it is debasing, humiliating, pauperizing. But there is no other mode of ministering to hunger so cheaply and so well—eight cents per day will give two square meals per day to any hungry man or woman. This I have practically demonstrated. Therefore, as a pressing necessity—"a war measure"—this is the only temporary plan that will meet the emergency. Next there should be lodgings for the thousands who must be housed out of the streets where they are now compelled to sleep, or in the festering station houses now being rapidly filled up. We should select unoccupied lofts, warm them thoroughly and accompodate homeless persons on the floor with a plain straw pillow, costing 50 cents. The room can be kept warm so as to require he bedding. Then by making selections of men and women, the "bummer class" could be apportioned to the station houses, while the better class could be classified and be kept cleanly and respectable.

The "bummer class" of which so much has been said to the prejudice of all who are peer number in this city of a million of souls less, joan one thousand. They are every where presqui on the streets, and therefore appear more numerons. It is unjust in the extreme to confound the enforced poor with this miserable class of vagrants.

The railway and miscellaneous share speculation has been as a rule dull to-day. The leadership of the market seems to have passed away from Lake Shore, and the greater activity has been in the lower priced stocks, Wabash, which has been the conspicuously weak spot in the market, having taken the lead as to the extent of business transacted. Of this stock 22,500 shares were sold, the closing quotation showing a decline of | per cent from Saturday's final price. North-West has been active, with an advance of 1 per cent on sale of 19,300 shares. Lake Shore has been steady, with sales of 12,300 shares. Mr. Drew put up his Quicksilver 31 per cent to-day to 351. There seems also to be an attempt making to galvanize Atlantic and Pacific Preferred into life and activity, which has been so far successful to-day as to advance the quotation 11 per cent. Central and Hudson, Western Union Telegraph, and St. Paul each went up 1; Rock Island, 1; Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph, 1; Ohios and Lake Shore, each 1, and Union Pacific, t. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Hannibal and St. Joseph, and Pacific Mail cach declined t, and Erie t per cent. There was more doing in the minor telegraph stocks, American District selling at 40 and Atlantic and Pacific at 20, The general market closed firm. The opening, highest, lowest, and closing prices of stocks sold to-day were as follows:
